He was born on 5 September 1872 in Ottapidaram, then Tirunelveli District (now Thoothukudi District) of Tamilnadu. He was the eldest son of lawyer Olaganathan Pillai and Paramayee Ammal. He studied Law in Thiruchirapalli and passed his Pleadership exam in 1894. He practised law in Thoothukudi.

In 1892, V.O.Chidambaram was influenced by Tilak and became his disciple. Along with Subramanya Siva and Subramanya Bharathi, he became a prominent spokesperson for the cause in Madras Presidency. In 1905, he entered politics, joining the Indian National Congress and taking a hardliner stance. He also presided at the Salem District Congress session.

The college has been built on the strong platforms of the hardships encountered and accomplishments of the yesteryear principals. NAAC has accredited the college with “A” grade in the past continuous three cycles viz., 2004, 2011 and 2017. Further our college is marching towards greater heights under the vibrant leadership of the incumbent principal, Dr.C.Veerabahu, who is also a proud alumni of the college. ### About the Founder Kulapathy A.P.C.Veerabahu born in Thoothukudi on 05th May 1915. He graduated from Loyola College, Chennai in 1935 and subsequently entered into active service to the nation. In 3rd February 1941, he married Smt. Mahalakshmi Ammal.

Kulapathy A.P.C.Veerabahu had an undiminishing vision of making the labourers and ordinary human beings self-reliant and self-sufficient. Prompted by his vision, he established many co-operative societies in and around Tuticorin. The first co-operative society was established by him in the year 1964. This society was instrumental in supplying the major demands of civil supplies for Tamil Nadu when

V.O.Chidambaram established many institutions like Swadeshi Prachar Sabha, Dharmasanga Nesavu Salai, National Godown, Madras Agro-Industrial Society Ltd., and Desabimana Sangam. In response to the British India Steam Navigation Company's trade monopoly, he started the Indian-owned Swadeshi Shipping Company in October 1906. He managed to secure sufficient funds to purchase the company's first ship, the S.S.Galia. Shortly afterwards he was able to acquire the S.S.Lavo from France. The ships commenced regular service between Thoothukudi and Colombo (Srilanka), against opposition from British traders and the Imperial Government.

He rejoined the Congress party in 1927 and presided over the third political conference held at Salem. In 1932 he moved to Thoothukudi, where he spent his time in writing and publishing Tamil books: Meyyaram in 1914, Meyyarivu in 1915, Anthology in 1915, Thirukural with literary notes of Manakudavar in 1917 and Tolkappiam with literary notes of Ilampooranar in 1928.

V.O.Chidambaram passed away on 18 November, 1936. Posthumously, he is known as "Kappalottiya Thamizlan" and "Chekkiluththa Chemmal". The Indian Posts and Telegraphs department of India issued a special postage stamp on 5 September 1972, on the occasion of his birth centenary.

the government was facing the severe civil supply crisis. The efficient running of that co-operative society stands as a testimony to his administrative skill.

Kulapathi was known for his active participation in the Indian freedom struggle. Though an active member of Indian National Congress, he never aspired for leadership. However his untiring service to the society made him the Member of Legislative Assembly of Srivaikundam Constituency during the period from 1957 to 1967. He became the member of All India Congress Committee in the year 1967 and the president of Tamil Nadu Congress Committee for three years from 1971 to 1973.

Apart from being an educationist and a political leader, Kulapathi had proved his mettle in various other fields. He was the member of Tamil Nadu Planning Commission in 1958 and the Chairman of the South Indian Bank, Tirunelveli between 1965 and 1974.

Kulapathi was also the Vice President of Dhakshina Bharat Hindi Prachar Sabha, Chennai in 1981 and the President of Dhakshina Bharat Hindi Prachar Sabha, Tamil Nadu at Tiruchirapalli from 1981 to 1982.

A Gandhian by thought, Thiru A.P.C. Veerabahu had understood the fact that the independent of the nation alone will not raise the standard of the people. Having seen the condition of the socially and economically deprived section even after independence, Kulapathi realized that education alone would liberate them in the real sense. So in the year 1951, he founded V.O.Chidambaram College despite all financial hurdles. Starting from its inception till now, the college remains a temple of learning for all the deprived sections of people in the Southern Tamil Nadu.

The successful establishment of V.O.Chidambaram College led to the founding of V.O.Chidambaram College of Education in 1955 and A.P.C.Mahalaxmi College for Women in the year 1973.

Though Kulapathi attained heavenly abode on August 13th 1982, his vision and mission continues to liberate millions of youth by offering quality education for which the institution was founded.

The ideals of the Founder Secretary which are being fervently followed by the College under the guidance of the present Secretary, Thiru. A.P.C.V. Chockalingam is reminiscent of the words of Mahatma Gandhi who was certain about the continuance of legacy of non-violence by Jawaharlal Nehru.
